Negro Found Guilty of Assault Upon Colored Child.

FOR HIS CRIME

ACCUSED A FORMER CONVICT

Makes a Bad Witness for Himself-Evidence Against Him Overwhelming.

Ed. Austin (colored) was found guilty in the Circuit Court of Henrico yester day of the charge of criminal assault upon a nine-year-old girl, Lillie Ross, of his own color. The jury returned after dict of guilty and fixing his punishmen

There was quite a large crowd in the room yesterday morning when Judge Scott called the court to order Austin, accompanied by a deputy, was ushered into the court room and took his sent behind the bar with his counsel.

of the crime. Her story was a straightone. She told of having been taken to the street car station at Fair Oaks, to await the arrival of her grand mother, who was in Richmond, and how one car passed and of the old woman's to appear. She said that they started back to the Austin house, and while going through a field covered with The next witness called was J. W. Dorson, who lives at Fair Oaks. He stated to the court that on the night of October 29th, he was sitting in his home and heard the child's cries, and accused.

The negro's wife was the next to go on the stand, and she tried hard to help her husband, but the witnesses that followed contradicted her statements.

Mr. Craddock, who next testified, told of how Austin's wife had told him of going to the scene of the crime and being attacked by her husband. Jane Brown told the court that Austin threatened to kill her if she "told on him." Nellie Webb also gave some testimony, which was damaging testimony.

The prisoner was put on the stand, and when cross-examined by Commonwealth-Attorney Wendenburg, he became excited and his evidence was at times conflicting and damaging to himself.

Charles Kerney testified as having known the negro when he werked on his father's farm. Duning the time Austin was on the stand his denied emphatically that lie committed the crime, but testified that he had served a term in the Norht Carolina State penitentiary.

The evidence was concluded at 2:30, when the court adjourned for dinner, The session was resumed at 4 o'clock.

The argument was opened by Commonwealth's-Attorney Wendenburg. The defence was represented by Messrs, Ordway Puller and Joseph Taylor, who had been appointed by the court to represent the prisoner.

The argument for the defence was the prisoner.

The argument for the defence was opened by Mr. Puller, who made the most of his evidence, and as far as possible made several good points. He was sollowed by Mr. Taylor, who made a strong plea for the prisoner. Mr. Wendenburg closed the argument with a few words in which he impressed the jury with the facts in the case and put the matter clearly before them.

At 5:45 the jury retired to the room with the instructions. During their session the prisoner made it known to his counsel that he would dash, for liberty should the verdict he death. Sheriff Solomon took precautions and had all of his deputies stationed at various exits and had those doors closed.

After being out exactly one hour the jury returned with their verdict. The

After being out exactly one nour the jury returned with their verdict. The vote was cleven to one for punishment by death. When the verdict was read the prisoner stood quietly and had nothing to say. Three deputies then took him hack to his call in the jail.

The verdict was as follows:

"We the jury find the acused guilty of the orime as charged in the indictment and fix his punishment at death."

seventy-gallon still just across the State line in North Carolina, and had arrested Wilson Price, one of the owners, while he was at work in the distillery. Carvor and Oscar Hopkins, another, possoman, was sent to the home of John Brown, a partner in the still, to arrest him. Brown refused to admit the officers, but instead shot over the door of its log cabin home, killing Carver instantly. The full charge of buck shot entered Carver's breast, tearing out his heart. Brown escaped Price was brought to Newport, Tenn, and julled there. This is the first death on a revenue raid in this section since Shoriff Dosser, of Cocke county, was killed about four years ago, within four hundred yards of where to-day's tragedy occurred.

Jury in the Betty Evans Murder

In the Hustings Court yesterday the day was largely devoted to the trial of Bettle Evans, who is charged with the murder of her husband.

The evidence was all submitted and the jury had the case for several hours and falled to agree. The result was that Judge Witt adjourned the jury over until 11 o'clock to-day with instructions that hey should not convedes with any one on the subject. The jury will agree to-day or will be discharged.
